

A detailed architectural rendering of a modern building complex. The complex consists of several interconnected wings, each featuring a red roofline. One prominent wing on the left has a large glass facade. A central courtyard area is visible, enclosed by the building's perimeter. The overall design is clean and geometric, with a focus on red and white color schemes.

The image consists of three side-by-side panels. The first panel shows two men in dark suits from the waist up, facing each other and holding hands. The second panel shows the same two men from the waist up, with their hands clasped together in a firm handshake. The third panel shows the two men from the waist up, with their hands now fully clasped and held together.
